Career Preparation

Many people go to college to develop their skills for a future career. The more you do to round out your educational experience, the better chance you’ll have at that dream job. Success doesn’t happen by itself. Make a plan and chart your own course! The sooner you start, the sooner you will begin to put things into place to help you achieve your goals. Begin with the following steps:

- Assess your interests and skills.
- Learn about and explore possibilities.
- Research a variety of career paths.
- Prepare your job-hunting tools.
- Do your homework:
  - determine which employers would be a good fit for your skills.
  - research each employer that seems like its a a good fit for you to find out what it does and what it needs.
- Determine if you can apply online.

Develop a Cover Letter

Your cover letter is the first contact you’ll have with a potential employer or supervisor. It should be addressed to a specific person and attached to your résumé.

- State the job you are interested in and how you learned of the position.
- Describe how your education, skills and experience would be an asset.
- Ask for an interview.
- Note that your résumé is attached.

Develop Your Résumé

Your résumé is a snapshot of the professional you, a calling card to get you into an interview. Put your best foot forward. Make sure your résumé:

- Is truthful. Not only is lying a bad idea, it is the quickest way to lose a job.
- Is clear. Use easily readable fonts, and keep it to one or two pages.

- Highlights your personal strengths that fit the requirements of the job. Modify your résumé for each new application, tailoring it to the specifics of the position you're seeking.
- Stands out, professionally speaking, in a stack. Try heavier stock, nice linen paper or a slightly different color hue (stay with the standard size).
- Has clear sections that are easy to scan, and tell enough about you to gain interest.
- Tells the employer how you can help its business.

Note: Inquire at a Student Services Center about uploading your résumé to your account in MyPima.

Interview Tips

Once you get in the door, let yourself shine and show the interviewer why you are the right match for the company and the job.

- Dress professionally.
- Smile and offer a firm handshake.
- Make direct eye contact.
- Be confident and courteous.
- Portray a professional attitude.
- Keep an open posture.
- Clarify questions.
- Speak clearly and to the point.
- Steer clear of questions on salary/benefits.
- Ask when the company will be making a decision.
- Write down the interviewer's name/title.
- Send a thank you note.

Need help? Check out "Big Interview" in the Career Services section of the Student Resources page in MyPima.

Pima holds one graduation ceremony per year, in the spring. If you are a fall or summer graduate, you also are eligible to participate in spring graduation activities.

Choose Classes for Your Learning Style and Life

Pima courses are offered in a variety of formats. Below, review the many formats by which courses are delivered and determine what works best for you.

In-person Traditional/Face-to-face Classroom:

Students attend classes at a designated physical location and on specified days and times. Students may be required to work online or use specific software to complete assignments.

Virtual:

Students attend live online meetings on specified days and times, and complete additional work independently.

Distance/Online Education:

Students participate and interact with the instructor and other students in an online environment. Weekly online participation, as defined in the class syllabus, is required. Any required in-person activity, such as taking a proctored exam or attending a class orientation, is offered in alternative formats for students who cannot physically attend.

Web and Classroom (Hybrid):

Students participate in a blend of traditional face-to-face and online instruction. Students attend classes at a designated physical location on specified days and times and also participate academically online. Weekly participation, as defined in the class syllabus, is required.

Self-paced on Campus (“Face-to-face Self-paced”):

Students work at a designated campus location at their own pace. Instruction is provided during specified hours and students must attend at least once per week.

Self-paced Independent:

Students work independently using study materials prepared by the instructor. Students must meet with the instructor in the defined room during the first week of classes, then must complete at least one academically related task per week, including during the first week.

Instructors provide instructional support during times specified in the syllabus.

Alternative-Timeframe Classes

Students may use the online class schedule to search by various start dates. For this reason it is very important for you to review all start and stop dates for all classes. Options include:

14-week classes begin after the traditional semester starts, and have specific start and stop dates. All normal course content is covered, so classes are slightly accelerated.

Weekend Classes

Pima offers classes that allow you to attend only on weekends. This is a great way to complete a degree or to supplement your overall enrollment.

Time Management

As you progress through your college experience, you will juggle school, family, employment and other obligations. To be a successful student, you must learn new ways to organize and manage your time. Time management gives you the ability to do the things you want and the things you must do.

The amount of time you need to devote to college is much more than just the time you spend in class. The basic formula for college is to allow at least two hours of study time outside of class for every hour you are in class (2-for-1 formula).

How often you need to study for a class depends on your learning ability for that subject area. A key to success in all college courses is to set aside time every day to review your notes and what you have read, and do your homework assignments. A daily 10- to 30-minute review can make a huge difference in your success in a class.

Use a planning calendar to begin managing your time for college. List all of your courses, work schedule, test dates and personal obligations. Then figure the amount of study hours you need using the 2-for-1 formula. Try to spread your study hours out over the week; rarely schedule a study time for longer than three hours. If you need assistance, enroll in a Student Success Class or make an appointment with a College counselor who will be happy to assist you in developing your time management study schedule.

Planning Your Weekly Schedule

See where your time goes on a daily basis.

Weekly Schedule

Writing notes and important dates in your weekly schedule can help you deal with the demands on your time. You can incorporate blocks of time for study, work, recreation and all of the other important details of life.

Financial Resources

Payment Options

You are required to pay for any classes for which you have registered. You may pay online, in person at campus Accounts Receivable Services offices at the Downtown and West campuses or by mail. For details, go to pima.edu/payments.

Online, you can view your balance and pay tuition.

- To pay, select one of the payment options.

Note: You must drop any unwanted classes by the official drop/refund/audit deadline or you will be responsible for paying all tuition and fees associated with those classes. The College reserves the right to drop unpaid registrations at any time.

Payment Plan

Need more time to pay for your classes? You may be eligible to enroll in a payment plan. Learn more at pima.edu/payment-plan.

No interest will be charged, and you don’t have to be a financial aid recipient to qualify.

To enroll in a payment plan, on MyPima, go to the “Students” tab, “Register and Pay” channel, then click on “MyAccountManager.”

General Financial Aid Information

Do not let a lack of funds prevent you from attending college. You may qualify for financial aid—money given or loaned to you to cover your expenses while you attend college. Although the federal government provides the largest amount of aid, the state of Arizona, the College and private donors also provide funds to those who qualify.

Types of Aid

- Grants – financial aid you don’t have to pay back, unless you stop attending
- Work Study – work and earn money to help pay for school
- Loans – borrowed money that you must repay with interest

Undergraduates who have not yet earned a bachelor’s degree may receive all three types of financial aid.

In addition, the College provides a variety of scholarships from state funds and private donors. Some scholarships are set up for students in a particular program, while several scholarships are set up by private donors and are based on merit or financial need. Learn more at pima.scholarshipuniverse.com.

Applying for Federal Financial Aid

Everyone who enrolls at Pima should apply for financial aid. Don't assume that you are not eligible—you may qualify for scholarships or other non-need-based aid. Most types of financial aid, federal and otherwise, use the information from the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) to determine eligibility. Many types of financial aid use other ways of determining eligibility, such as your program of study (major), your grade point average or involvement in extracurricular activities.

The first step in applying for most types of financial aid is to complete the FAFSA using one of the following methods:

- Input your FAFSA online through fafsa.gov (quickest method)
- Print a FAFSA form at fafsa.gov, complete it and mail it to the federal government.

You may apply for financial aid at any time during the school year and Pell Grant eligibility is not affected by how early or late you apply.

Veterans Educational Benefits

If you are a veteran, or a survivor or dependent of a veteran, you may be eligible for veterans educational benefits, tuition deferment and/or a Veteran's Book Loan. Contact a campus Student Services Center or visit the Downtown Campus Veterans Center for assistance in starting your benefits. For more information on eligibility and how to apply, visit pima.edu/veterans. Once you have started the process, follow the status of your benefits by logging into MyPima, selecting the "Students" page, then selecting "Veterans."

Other Financial Resources

In addition to awards of federal and state financial aid and veterans educational benefits, other resources to pay for college are available. Here are just a few examples:

- Pima Community College helps students achieve their dreams through scholarships and grants. For more details, visit pima.scholarshipuniverse.com. Some of these are:
  - Chancellor's Service Scholarship: For students with volunteer and community service experiences.
  - Pima Book Scholarships: Funded by the Follett Bookstore, they are available to help qualified Pima students purchase books and supplies. Check out the scholarships web page for more opportunities.
- Scholarships available through community, civic, religious, political, special interest and business organizations

Be a Responsible College Student

Start a college folder

- Keep copies of all of your transactions (registration forms, online drop/add, financial aid applications, schedule of classes, etc.)
- Write down questions to ask your advisor (and the answers!)
- Know who to talk to for college information. If you don't know, ask a Pima employee.

Keep your student information current - update it on MyPima

- Correct mailing address
- Correct phone number
- Correct major/program of study

Know important policies and requirements

- Standards of Academic Progress
- Refund policy
- Grading policy
- Student Code of Conduct
- Course prerequisites

Know important deadlines

Refer to the Academic Calendar at a Glance (pages 5-7, the online class schedules (pima.edu/schedule) or the Key Dates & Deadlines calendar (pima.edu/keydates)

- Last day to pay for classes
- Last day to drop for a refund
- Last day to withdraw from a class
- Last day to apply for graduation
- Last day of classes

Don't just stop attending class - talk to your instructor

- If you aren't doing well in a course, talk to your instructor and ask for help from a tutor. Don't just stop attending!
- Officially drop or withdraw if you can't complete the class. Students can drop or withdraw online through MyPima or at a campus Student Services Center. Please review drop and withdrawal deadlines.
- Know the difference between a drop and a withdrawal.
- Realize that if you don't drop or withdraw, you may receive a failing grade for the class.
- To check specific drop/refund and withdrawal deadlines for classes that you have registered for, go to MyPima, select "Students" in the top black bar, then "Academics." Review the information in "My Schedule."

Drops and Withdrawals are different

Drop

- Must be processed by the official Drop/Refund deadline.
- You will receive a refund if dropping the class changes your tuition due.
- The course will not appear on your transcript.
- Dropping a class changes your enrollment status and may result in you having to return a portion of your financial aid or veterans award. Check with a campus Student Services Center BEFORE dropping or withdrawing from a class.

Withdrawal

- Must be processed by the official Student Withdrawal deadline.
- You will not receive a refund.
- The class will appear on your transcript with a grade of "W."
- Withdrawals affect satisfactory academic progress and veterans benefits, and may affect your financial aid eligibility. Check with a campus Student Services Center BEFORE dropping or withdrawing from a class.
